CONCEPT:

To construct a monument to the resilience, expertise, and resourcefulness of the people of Windsor by reclaiming unused material, space, and skill born of the automotive industry.
This structure will be made of scrap metal parts collected locally by the artist and constructed with a former factory worker from the area, in Ford City Park in front of the former assembly plant.
The day of the installation, the completed structure will serve as a temporary lemonade stand, to reinforce the history of the community in its ability to take initiative and to actively participate in the decisions made in the workplace and in the municipality.
This metaphor is reverberated in the shape and in the evening lighting of the structure.
It is the artists' hope that the structure will be used as a gathering point, as shelter from the elements, and as a place to reflect.
